

2023 Annual Serials Cloned Bib Records

Using the Annual cloned bib records

New Serials and bib records have been added for the 2023 issues of the following magazine titles:

- Architectural digest
- Better homes & gardens
- Birds & blooms
- Bloomberg businessweek
- Bon appetit
- Car and driver
- Consumer reports
- Cook's illustrated
- Cosmopolitan
- Country living
- Discover
- Food network magazine
- Game & fish Midwest
- GQ
- Good housekeeping
- HGTV magazine
- Highlights for children
- House beautiful
- In business
- Kiplinger's personal finance
- Madison magazine
- Men's health
- Midwest living
- Motor trend
- National geographic
- National geographic kids
- National review
- Our Wisconsin
- People
- Popular mechanics
- Prevention
- Publishers weekly
- Ranger Rick
- Reader's digest large print
- Real simple
- Rolling stone
- Scientific American
- Smithsonian
- Sports illustrated
- Sports illustrated kids
- Taste of home
- The Atlantic
- The economist
- The family handyman
- The Mother earth news
- The nation
- The New York times book review
- The New York times magazine
- The New Yorker
- The Reader's digest
- The week
- The week junior
- Time
- Us weekly
- Vanity fair
- Vogue
- Woman's day
- Zoobooks

Please begin using the new records for serials checkin beginning with the first 2023 issue for each title. Also, do not use the 2023 records to receive issues from 2022. Be sure to check the issue line in your library's subscription record before you receive an issue. If you are not sure how to proceed when you are receiving an issue, ask a question using the Serials Support Form before receiving the issue.

Checking your library's subscription records

New subscription records have been created for each library on the new Serials records. Please review your library's subscription records, and make any changes to the following if you wish to do so:

- Item Type (Default: Magazine, adult)
- Status Not for loan (Default: Current Issue/No CKO)
- Location (Default: ADULT)
- Collection (Default : MAGAZINES AD)
- Cost, normal purchase price (Default: 6.00)
- Cost, replacement price (Default: 6.00)

Add, modify, or delete fields according to Section 2 of the Serials Manual.

How should I receive issues that are dated both 2022 and 2023?

For single issues that span both 2022 and 2023, such as Dec/Jan or Winter issues, use the 2022 record if the issue completes or continues a volume begun in 2022. Use the 2023 record if the volume number is new for 2023. See the example below:

- Dec 2022/Jan 2023 v.134, no.12: Use the 2022 record because the volume completes/continues the volume begun in 2022.
- Dec 2022/Jan 2023 v.135, no.1: Use the 2023 record because a new volume begins in 2023.

Please note that the special instructions above apply only to single issues that span both 2022 and 2023. Issues associated with a single year should go on the record for the appropriate year, regardless of the volume number. For example, The New Yorker does not roll over its volume number until mid-February, and typically there are no issues that span two years. Therefore, even though there are 2022 and 2023 issues with the same volume number, each issue should be placed on the record that corresponds to the appropriate year. See the example below:

- v.91 no.41 : 2022 Dec: Use the 2022 record because the issue is associated only with 2022.
- v.91 no.42 : 2023 Jan: Use the 2023 record because the issue is associated only with 2023.

Why are we doing this?

We create these annual clones after the magazine bib records reach a point where they have a large number of items attached. The bib records can become very difficult to work with when there are a large amount of item records attached.