

31 Things SCLS Can Do For You

1. Design and print business cards for you, as time permits, on a cost-recovery basis
2. Provide multitype scholarships to attend conferences, workshops, and other training
3. Help you promote special and annual events through Online Update, by developing materials, and by distributing information to other libraries through Delivery
4. Create certificates to recognize staff, volunteers, trustees, etc., as time permits, on a cost-recovery basis
5. Provide registration cards to encourage patrons to “Speak up” for libraries
6. Give you chances to provide feedback on how we are doing: <http://www.scls.info/feedback.html>
7. Help you laugh when the world looks ugly (or at least listen to you vent)
8. Help you be ADA compliant
9. Design new stationery for your library, as time permits, on a cost-recovery basis
10. Bring training right to your library computer
11. Laminate posters or signs, as time permits, on a cost-recovery basis
12. Lend books and many other materials from the professional collection to help you in your work
13. Help write a public service announcement, as time permits, on a cost-recovery basis
14. Help improve your delivery work flow (for Delivery customers)
15. Offer a workshop on a topic you suggest
16. Facilitate partnerships between you and public libraries
17. Provide printing and graphics services, as time permits, on a cost-recovery basis
18. Announce your staff changes and other library news via Online Update
19. Deliver tons and tons and tons of library materials for your customers every year (for Delivery customers)
20. Provide recordings of continuing education workshops
21. Handle “special requests” for delivery services above and beyond the usual, on a cost-recovery basis
22. Make sure to tell the world what a great, and necessary, job you do every day
23. Set up access for online databases
24. Provide access to ebooks and audiobooks through the Wisconsin Public Library Consortium (WPLC) (need public library card to access)
25. Provide help with computer recycling, on a cost-recovery basis
26. Connect you (delivery-wise) to other libraries throughout Wisconsin and in other states (for Delivery customers)
27. Sign you up for email lists
28. Distribute all kinds of informational materials about unique programs, services, and opportunities in your community and the broader south-central Wisconsin region
29. Help you search for that “missing in delivery” item (for Delivery customers)
30. Provide other consulting services as feasible
31. Provide meeting space as available

If you have questions or suggestions, please contact Jean Anderson at (608) 246-5613; jean@scls.info